PAINTING THE U. S. YELLOW
When Senator Harding publicly turns his back on all the obligations of the League of Nations, he turns his back on all the obligations that the United States incurred in the war. He turns his back on all the responsibilities for the maintenance of the peace of the nations. While the Bolsheviks are trying to paint Europe red, Warren G. Harding is trying to paint the United States yellow. That is all the Republican party, through its candidate for president, has to offer to a distracted civilization.

This is the concluding paragraph of an editorial in the New York World on Candidate Harding's flop, bag and baggage, to the irreconcilables on the League of Nations.

In a preceding paragraph of the same editorial, the World said: "Who can doubt that if Harding becomes president, this irreconcilable element will continue to bulldoze him and that he will continue to capitulate? The only alternative is to assume that Harding is wholly dishonest intellectually, and that he is engaged in tricking the Johnsons and Borahs until after election, when he will repudiate his own pledges and make a new alliance with the League of Nations Republicans. Are Mr. Taft and Mr. Hoover and the other pro-League Republicans prepared to give the voters assurance that Senator Harding is committed to such a policy of perfidy? Otherwise they must either join Harding in scrapping the league or join Cox in scrapping Harding. No other course is open to them."

"LEAVE WELL ENOUGH ALONE"
The people of the United States were never more prosperous than they are today. Everybody has a job and everybody has money—more money than they ever had before. The tramp, like the panic, is a thing of the past. Instead of $1 for a ten-hour day and an empty dinner pail, the working man is making from $5 to $20 for eight hours' work, lives better and gets more enjoyment out of life than ever before.

The man who used to walk now takes his family out in a Ford. The same man has better clothes, more and better food, a comfortable home, more time for recreation, money in his pocket, and he walks erect and with greater self-respect and confidence than in the "good old days" when he labored from morn until night for a pittance, wearing the yoke of monopolistic dictatorship.

Where is the man or woman who would change these conditions? Who wants to return to the "good old days"? Where is the man or woman who wants to return to the days of low wages and long hours and of poor living conditions? Who wants to return to "normalcy"?

Better "leave well enough alone." The Democratic administration has brought unexampled prosperity to the state and nation. The country is rid of tramps and panics and everybody is prosperous, why vote to restore the days of Mark Hanna and corporate domination of the country?

That is what Wall street and the senate oligarchy has conspired to do. They want control of the country's finances, demolishing the federal reserve banking system that has stabilized our finance and made panics impossible.

After all, Mr. Voter, aren't you doing pretty well under Democratic control of the government? Haven't we had pretty good business administrations in state and nation? There has been a lot of talk to the contrary, but that has been reactionary propaganda to create dissatisfaction among the people in the hope that the Wall street crowd, through misrepresentation and falsehood, would be able to win the election.

But the voter will not be fooled. The times are good, the country is prosperous and it would be foolish to make a change now.

Stop and think, Mr. Voter, and see if you do not come to the same conclusion.

"Leave well enough alone."

COUNTY ENGINEER'S OFFICE IS A BUSY PLACE THIS WEEK

Martinsburg Road Materials Will Arrive Tomorrow; Two Men Needed

Just now the county engineer's department is one of the busiest centers in the city. County Surveyor Carl Van Voorhis stated this morning that he could not find men enough to get his work completed. At present he needs two men for the Kokosing river improvement in order that it can be done successfully and efficiently.

Mr. Van Voorhis stated that the materials for the Martinsburg-Utica road were scheduled to arrive here Saturday morning. They will be hauled immediately to the job.

The engineers are spending some time each week on the river project. The distance line has been completed and some of the cross-section work. At this time of year the high weeds along the river bottom impede the progress of the undertaking, but good time is being made and the department is satisfied with its accomplishments.
